

Mike Barfield

As part of Ledbury's poetry festival, we were treated to a visit from a poet called Mike Barfield. Mike began the morning with a whole school assembly where he entertained us with a few of his very funny poems from some of his books. The children in Key Stage Two participated in workshops with Mike where they had the opportunity to create their own poetry in the form of limericks and other styles. The day concluded with a second assembly where the children were able to showcase their work. Mike was overwhelmed with the number of pupils that wanted to share their poetry and was really impressed with their presentation skills. It was a wonderful day for all.
